TRAVEL BLOGGER

about the blogger

I am a husband, work-at-home father, and avid traveler. When not on the road, I enjoy spending time with my family, cooking, building Lego models, working in our gardens, and watching TV with a few cats on my lap.

about the blog

Wagon Pilot Adventures is centered around Midwest and other US travel. Family vacations are covered as well as solo exploration. My favorite aspect of travel is talking to people passionate about their lives. I also write about my love of cooking, relevant product reviews, and general family lifestyle.

services offered

Travel press trips with a focus on writing about individual businesses, events, and vacation destinations highlighted with quality photography are my specialty.

I also enjoy working with brands to collaborate on product reviews, events, and recipes on both the blog and social media.
